EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The proposed Development Code amendments conclude the second portion of the Mixed Use Conservation (MUC) District Strategic Project. The proposal, which was covered in a workshop with the City Council on August 28, 2007, replaces a cumbersome Conditional Use Permit (CUP) process with a staff-approvable process (with specific criteria) for new buildings and building additions within the MUC District. Also provided is a Planning and Zoning Commission approval option for proposals from applicants when an alternative design, layout, or materials are desired that do not qualify for staff approval. At the workshop meeting on August 28, 2007, the City Council concurred with the Commission's proposal with the exception that an applicant could appeal a denial by the Commission directly to the Council.

In September 2005, Council directed Planning staff to study the Mixed Use Conservation District and come up with options to increase the predictability and effectiveness of the district. The project began in early 2006 with public input. Council requested that staff involve community stakeholders that have a direct interest in any potential changes to the MUC. In April of 2006, we held two stakeholder meetings to introduce the project, discuss the framework that the Council had provided in January of that year, and solicit initial input. Initial public input included recognition that:

- The area is unique/special;
- The current regulations and process are complex, cumbersome, and unpredictable; and,
- New regulations should encourage and incent preservation of structures without overregulation.

The group also specified a few previously allowed uses that they felt should be added back into the district. They also suggested that there be a process whereby proposals that do not meet all of the standards but might still fit in with the district could be approved.

During the subsequent months, staff conducted fieldwork, analysis, and research, identifying characteristics of the area. While we found little in common on the nonresidential properties, we did find definite development and building style patterns in the area. These patterns translated into a set of standards that could be established and applied through staff site plan and permit application review, in the same manner other standards in the Code are applied. The resulting standards were translated into a range of options we took back to the stakeholder group for further input. All initial recommendations were presented to the stakeholder group in two meetings – one in January 2007 where some changes were suggested, and a final meeting in late April. The result was general concurrence of the stakeholder group. The Planning and Zoning Commission held a Public Hearing on the proposal on July 26, 2007 where there was no opposition. The Commission unanimously recommended approval of the proposed amendments, with the request that staff provide an annual review for the District regulations to examine results of the standards.

The amendment to the district regulations include the following:

- Adds antique stores, book stores, and accounting offices to the list of permitted uses
- Classification of original residential properties into three specific sectors based on characteristics
- List of specific standards (staff-approvable)
- MUC Site Development Permit approval option by Commission (Commission-approvable) with appeal option to Council

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION:

PUBLIC HEARING:

Per Chapter Two, Article I of the Development Code, notice of this Public Hearing was posted in a newspaper of general circulation and property owners within the MUC District and within 200' of the District were notified by mail. In addition, the hearing notice was published on the City of Sugar Land Internet Home Page. At the time of this report, we have received three inquiries which were informational in nature.

PLANNING AND ZONING COMMISSION ACTION:

On June 28, 2007 the Planning and Zoning Commission received a workshop by staff on various components of the rezoning and Development Code amendments for the Mixed Use Conservation (MUC) District Strategic Project. A Public Hearing for this item was held at the Planning and Zoning Commission Meeting of July 26, 2007 where two members of the Public spoke with regard to the proposed MUC District requirements. The speakers expressed support for the amendments. The Commission extensively discussed components of the draft proposal for amendments to the Development Code. Following further review, the proposed rezoning was brought back for Consideration and Action at the Commission meeting of August 14, 2007 with minor clarifications. Following discussion, the Commission unanimously recommended approval of the proposed rezoning to the Mayor and City Council. Additionally, the Commission requested that the City conduct an annual review of the MUC District and related requirements with the Commission to determine effectiveness.

Summary of Administrative Regulations-

The new MUC district administrative regulations would primarily serve the purpose of replacing the Conditional Use Permit (CUP) requirement for all new buildings in the district with standards for approval during a typical building permit review. Under a new system resulting from a detailed analysis of the district and significant public input, new buildings approved at the staff level would be similar to the original buildings in setbacks, height, size and general architectural features. Additionally, the regulations provide flexibility for single-family residential construction, rear additions and accessory structures not affecting the original building.

The intent of the regulations is to provide standards for approval at the time of building permit review for new buildings. These standards reflect the scale and general architectural features of the existing development patterns in the district. The regulations provide flexibility for single-family residential construction and additions to the rear of the original building footprint area as an incentive for preservation of the original buildings in the district.

A bulleted summary of the regulations is as follows. The attached draft ordinance goes into greater detail. Graphics are also attached to better describe the required features.

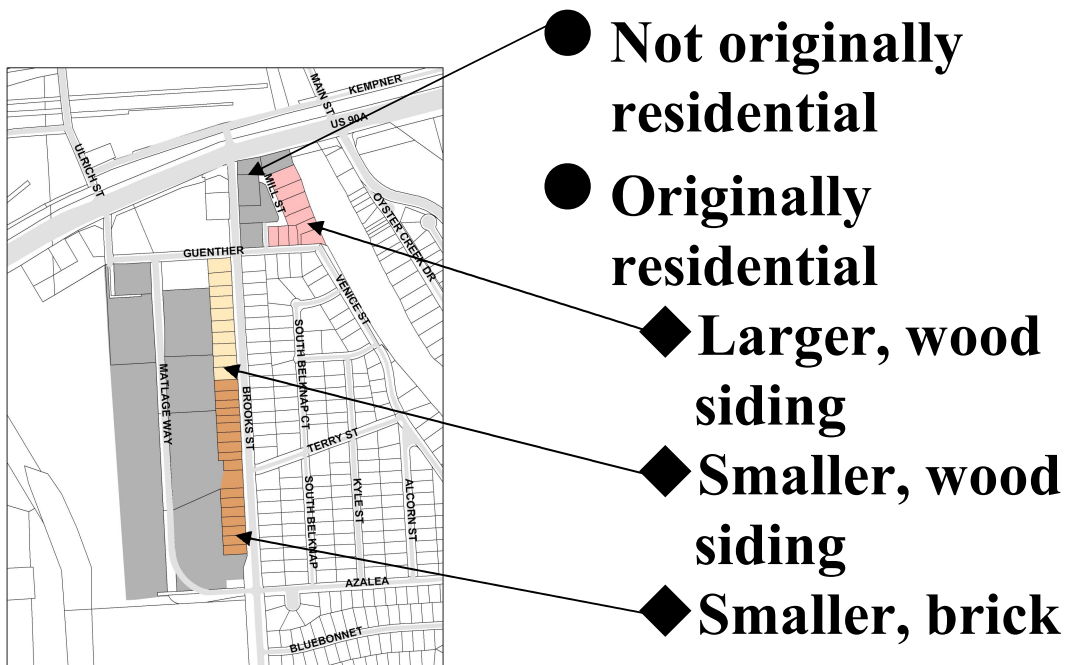

- Maximum height of 20' / 1 ½ stories for Principal Buildings on the front of the lot to the south of Guenther

- Required setback of 20' for all Principal Buildings to match existing development pattern
- Maximum square footage of 1,500 for Principal Buildings on the front of the lot to the south of Guenther / 2,000 square feet to the north of Guenther (consistent with existing development)
- 30 percent green space requirement
- Attached garages not permitted (required to be detached as with existing development)
- Front porch feature required (in line with existing development)
- Gable roof with overhang on all sides required for new development
- Partial hip roof feature (sloping down toward front façade of building) required in southern portion of district along Brooks Street (visible on existing structures)
- New single-family residential construction allowed on rear of lot provided there is a permitted commercial use of the Principal Building on the front of the lot and the residence is occupied by the owner and operator of the business
- Minimum front setback of 50' for accessory structures
- Maximum height of accessory structures limited to that of existing building/s on the lot
- Driveways, garages and existing parking spaces designated in Brooks Street right-of-way (within the property lines of the subject lot) each count as a space toward meeting the parking requirement
- Accessory quarters permitted in MUC district (as with other residential districts)
- Primary finish defined as brick in southern portion of the district along Brooks Street / wood or fiber cement siding to the north (consistent with original development)
- Wood or fiber cement siding for all detached garages in the district (consistent with original development)

The Planning and Zoning Commission would be authorized to approve requests that do not meet the standards for staff approval but that the Commission determines are compatible with the existing character of the district. If the applicant's request is denied by the Commission, there is an opportunity to appeal the denial to the City Council within a period of 30 days.
